

Imagining the Future

Cheshire and Wirral Partnership NHS Foundation Trust (CWP) is asking people to get involved in helping us to develop our plan for the future. We have called our plan Imagining the Future.

Who is CWP?

CWP is an NHS trust based in Cheshire and Wirral that provides health and care services for local people, including mental health, learning disability, community physical health (for example health visitors and district nurses) and all-age disability care – including three GP surgeries.

CWP's services are mainly in Wirral and Cheshire, but there are also services in other parts of the North West.

What is Imagining the Future?

CWP would like to help improve the lives of everyone in our communities. Imagining the Future is how we plan to help make this happen. We want to work in partnership with other organisations so that we are all working together to improve the lives of the people we support. We also encourage as many people as possible to get involved with us and give us their views.

Helping to improve the lives of everyone in our communities

Here are some examples of how we can do this...

Working with partners and people with lived experience to ensure we have places that people can go when they are in crisis. Develop new safe places like crisis cafes.

Working with community organisations such as Citizens Advice to provide support, skills and physical health checks for people with serious mental illness.

Taking steps to make services more environmentally friendly (meeting the Government's net zero target by 2050)

Carrying out research on areas which impact on clinical decision making. Things like social circumstances (housing, employment).

Imagining the Future has a number of goals and we would like your help, including hearing your ideas and views.

Our goals are:

Improving Care, Health and Wellbeing

Doing what we can to find and support people who need our services. We want to help reduce inequality and have the greatest possible impact on our communities.

For example, by ensuring the whole population, including professionals, have timely access to CWP services particularly at the point of crisis.

Working with communities

Supporting people within our local communities to build the knowledge, skills and confidence they need to look after their own health and wellbeing. To support people to cope with difficulties such as stress and life challenges and to learn from their experiences.

For example, developing and providing access to education and training opportunities.

Working in partnership

Helping and supporting our communities by working closely together with others to provide them with what they need to thrive.

For example, ensuring that all people who access CWP services are also supported by our partners.

Delivering, planning and commissioning services

Joining up care through organisations and care professionals bringing together all of the different elements of care that a person needs. We want to make sure that our contribution is always of high quality and based on evidence.

For example, by ensuring that all care focuses on what matters most by being co-produced with those accessing or affected by services.

Making best value

Improving outcomes for our local population by reducing gaps and inefficiencies in health and care, and also offering opportunities for financial savings. We want to ensure that we allocate our resources to get the best possible results for people.

For example, using benchmarking and continuous improvement to ensure our services provide value for money.

Reducing inequalities and environmental sustainability

Using relationships and resources to help people by working with partners to address economic and digital poverty within our population

For example, sharing our buildings and training facilities and providing opportunities for training and employment to those people who have less access than others.

Focussing on people

We will be person-centred and values-based and make CWP a place which enables each of us to be the best that we can be.

For example, ensuring everyone who works or volunteers at CWP knows they belong and has the confidence to make their own unique contribution.

Improving and Innovating

Helping to improve the lives of everyone in our communities by understanding what works well and why, and what we can do differently and better Sharing our learning with others as well as taking on board learning from elsewhere.

For example, supporting and encouraging innovation such as the Big Book of Best Practice.

How can you get involved?

The COVID-19 pandemic has brought many new challenges for health and social care services. Your feedback will help us plan how we move forward out of the pandemic and how we can work in partnership to make this happen.

We have a survey that you can fill in on our website <http://imaginingthefuture.cwp.nhs.uk>.

The survey is quite long but each of our goals has a few questions. You can answer the questions under each goal, or you can just pick the goals that you are interested in.

We really want to find out:

- What would make the biggest difference for you?
- What could you do to help?
- Does anything need to change to help achieve this?

We know that completing surveys does not work for everyone so we are also attending meetings and events with staff and within our communities so that we can capture as many people's views as possible.

What will happen next? (How your feedback will be used)

We will look at everyone's feedback to help inform our next steps and will communicate how we have taken on board your views.
